Hi Eric,

Southwest flights are canceled today from La Guardia. As a result, Director Barraza cannot depart until Sunday. The W Hotel where she was staying is sold out, including others (summertime vacations), so the Westin is available in the same vicinity.

Chris provided the authorization, and the receipt is below.

Thank you.

Concurrent Breakout Session

Astor Ballroom, 7th Floor

Session Convener: Kaiser Permanente, Pfizer, Inc.

The COVID-19 pandemic caused major disruptions in the lives of every adult and child across the country, in many cases exacerbating existing behavioral and mental health challenges many students face. As education governing boards work to develop environments that promote academic success for students, schools, and colleges must identify effective ways to assist struggling families. In this session, participants will gain an understanding of the Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACES) framework and its relation to a lifetime of opportunity and discuss best practices to allow students to reengage in the learning process.

According to the U.S. Small Business Administration, nearly one in four new businesses is Latino owned. The country's nearly five million Latino-owned businesses contribute more than $800 billion to the American economy annually. During this period of economic uncertainty, it is imperative that policymakers spearhead strategies to help create business environments where Latino entrepreneurs have access to the resources they need. The NALEO Network at Work: Charla on Leadership and Best Practices

Empire + Hudson, 7th Floor

Coalitions with common interests who agree to work together toward common goals — goals as narrow as obtaining funding to improve the delivery of services or as broad as trying to improve overall health outcomes for constituents — are needed now more than ever. However, there are often barriers to starting and sustaining such coalitions. Past experiences may have convinced organizations, individuals, or the community that such collaboration is impossible. During this charla, presenters will lead a discussion on how policymakers can leverage their roles as public servants to lead diverse coalitions in their communities that promote policies to improve people's lives.
